

Individual Reflection Week 7

What do I want to learn or understand better?

This week I worked with some of the logic in our project. when doing this I understood that I don't understand exactly how our code has been built up. Therefore I want to gain a better understanding of our code. I think I can get this by working on my userstory when sitting together with the rest of my team. This will make it more simple to ask quick questions and the person who built that exact part of the code can then answer.

How can I help someone else, or the entire team, to learn something new?

By working together, and as I have written in other reflections, I think that we are quite good at learning new things. However this week we maybe could have learned some more by sitting together while working on our userstories.

What is my contribution towards the team's use of Scrum?

This week I was a developer. When it comes to attending the meetings this week I have been a part of the sprint planning, the sprint review and the team reflection meeting. I have also participated in all the daily check-ups. We all together updated the backlog and wrote acceptance criteria and tasks for every userstory before delegating it to someone.

What is my contribution towards the team's deliveries?

This week I finished all my assigned user stories, but it took longer than expected. All userstories were about implementing some code and making our application easier to use. Therefore I contributed to making our product look more appealing and work in a better way, which was something our client saw a value in.
