What do I want to learn or understand better?

There are a lot of things that I want to learn and understand better after this course. I have only worked a little bit with the agile workflow and scrums before, and I want to learn more about how it works in practice. I also want to learn more about how to work efficiently with it, what the benefits are, common mistakes to be aware of, how to bring out the best in everyone in the group according to this type of work and so on. I also want to learn more about the “agile triangle”/”inverting the triangle” since it for example seems like a good way to work towards a more reasonable workload instead of always having too much to do. These are things that I am going to work with throughout the course. This week I will strive towards these goals by learning from google searches, lectures, exercises, discussions with others and so on.

How can I help someone else, or the entire team, to learn something new?

I want to be helpful and educational in every situation I can and be there for everyone to help - regardless if it is related to code, different programs, scrum workflow and so on. The most important is to be communicative, inclusive, make everybody feel that they are important and so on - in that way we can work better as a group and learn more. By helping others, I also gain knowledge.

What is my contribution towards the team's use of Scrum?

This week we had an exercise where I participated and learned more about the use of scrum. We also discussed a lot about how it is used and how we should work with it later on in the course. We have also used our previous experiences to teach each other.

What is my contribution towards the team's deliveries?

I contributed to putting this group of people together. We all participated in a meeting where we discussed and wrote the social contract. We had a lot of important discussions that are going to be valuable in the future.
