Individual Reflection – Week 7

Philip Winsnes

What do I want to learn or understand better?

This was the last sprint. If I would continue with this project I would like to get an understanding of how to properly work agile with the UI/UX design in a project like ours. Sometimes we did small design decisions right away in the code, skipping the prototyping part. This is of course sometimes natural and time efficient but I think that it is not an industry standard approach. I would therefore like to learn how to organize design work more professional.

How can I help someone else, or the entire team, to learn something new?

This week we have tried to work as much as possible on campus to easier help each other, even if we work individually. This have turned out well and I think that this type of teamwork is good for future projects. I personally have felt it natural to work remotely sine the pandemic but this experience have changed my mind a bit. From now on, I desire to work on campus together with others more.

What is my contribution towards the team's application of Scrum?

This week I have not taken any role which have been comfortable. I have been PO a few times and I would not like to be PO all the time. I have developed user stories together with two others in form of pairs which was nice as it makes troubleshooting much easier. One of the problems encountered during the week would made me give up if I did it on my own.

What is my contribution towards the team's deliveries?

I have helped to develop push notifications and offline functionality for the app.
